General Introduction

The patterns of daily prayer in this volume embrace the three key elements of praise, intercession and engagement with Scripture which form the heart of the daily praying tradition of the Church. It is a praying tradition that ranges from the Daily Office – celebrated as Christians gather together, perhaps with symbol, movement and song – to other styles of daily prayer, where individuals reflect on the Scriptures with or without the help of set forms of prayer, but often using a common scheme of Bible reading.

Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer and Night Prayer provide ways of punctuating each day of the week with praise, prayer and attention to Scripture. Thus, as George Herbert put it, ‘seven whole days, not one in seven’ will we praise God, pray for God’s world and allow ourselves to be formed and re-formed by God’s word. This introduction is intended to help each person or group to make the most suitable and satisfying use of this provision. It is followed by some general notes and seasonal notes relevant to all the orders of prayer. More detailed guidance is provided in the introduction and the accompanying notes to Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer and Night Prayer.

Where to Start

A regular pattern

Whether Common Worship: Daily Prayer is used by an individual, a small group, a parish at prayer or a religious community, the first decision to make is what the regular pattern of worship is to be. What is chosen will depend on a number of circumstances, including the time available. One of the following patterns may be worth considering:

1. Simply using Prayer During the Day, perhaps balancing this with Night Prayer.
2. Following the fuller diet of Morning and/or Evening Prayer.
Celebrating a four-fold Office of Morning Prayer, Prayer During the Day in the form of Midday Prayer, Evening Prayer and Night Prayer.

Some will also be taking part in a daily celebration of the Holy Communion.

Penitence

There is also a decision to be made about whether or when to use one of the Forms of Penitence on pages 91–97. This may depend on whether Holy Communion or Night Prayer, both of which usually include prayers of penitence, are being celebrated that day.

Optional material and choices

Further judgements will be needed about how much of the optional material in each order will be appropriate and which, if any, of the various alternative texts will be used. Choices will also be influenced by the way in which those who use this book decide to listen to God through Scripture in their daily prayer. It is advisable, once choices have been made, to use them consistently for at least four weeks before any change is made.

What to Read

Common Worship: Daily Prayer is designed to be used with the Common Worship lectionaries. The annual lectionary booklet, which will need to be at hand, provides two tracks of readings suitable for the office, each with an Old Testament and a New Testament reading. Here are some questions that might be asked in deciding what to read:

How many readings might be read each day?

Those who are praying twice a day, morning and evening, may simply follow both tracks in the lectionary booklet, a total of four readings a day.

Those who pray only once a day may use just one of the tracks.
Those who wish to concentrate on one biblical book at a time may follow just one of the readings from one of the tracks for a period, alternating between New Testament and Old Testament readings to retain a balance.

Can those who pray more than once a day create a varied pattern of prayer, praise and Bible reading?

Many people will use the Common Worship weekday lectionary at Morning and Evening Prayer, for which it is primarily designed. Prayer During the Day can then be a simple act of praise and prayer, possibly in the form of Midday Prayer.

Others may want to use Prayer During the Day as their opportunity for sustained engagement with Scripture and will concentrate their reading of Scripture there, thus freeing Morning or Evening Prayer to focus more on praise and intercession. In this case, the Common Worship weekday lectionary may be used at Prayer During the Day, whilst the short reading set for Prayer During the Day may be used within Morning or Evening Prayer.

There are many possible combinations. The important thing is to make responsible decisions about the use of Scripture that allow for reflection on God's word, and for the offering of praise to God and prayer for God's world in a balanced way during the day and week.

Choosing the Psalmody

The Common Worship weekday lectionary provides psalm cycles designed to be followed at Morning and Evening Prayer.

Three shorter psalm cycles are provided in this book, all of which are intended primarily to be used with Prayer During the Day.

Two tables making use of Psalm 119 and the Psalms of Ascent (Psalms 121–131 and 133) on a weekly, fortnightly or monthly pattern (page 24).

A monthly psalm cycle for ordinary time (found within the daily orders for Prayer During the Day).

A weekly psalm cycle for the seasons (found within the seasonal orders for Prayer During the Day).
If a pattern of Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer is followed, it is recommended that the first of the above schemes for Prayer During the Day is followed, since there will be less likelihood of repetition in the psalmody.

As with the Bible readings, the psalmody may be swapped between services, in a regular pattern. If several offices are said during the day and a more substantial diet of praise and psalmody is required at Midday Prayer, part of the Psalm provision in the Common Worship weekday lectionary may be used at Prayer During the Day, whilst one of the shorter Prayer During the Day cycles may be used at Morning or Evening Prayer.

Suggested psalmody for Night Prayer is found within the order for Night Prayer itself and on the pages of daily and seasonal variations (pages 344–355).

Where to Look in Daily Prayer

The Contents pages indicate where each order of prayer can be found.

It will also be necessary to know the time of the Christian year. This can be found out from the Seasonal Notes on pages xix–xx (or from the annual lectionary booklet).

In Ordinary Time (see page xx), there is a separate order for each day of the week for Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer. There is also daily provision for Night Prayer (on pages 344–347).

For each liturgical season, there is a separate order for Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer. There is also seasonal provision for Night Prayer (on pages 348–355).

The Collects and suggested canticles and refrains for Ordinary Time, for the seasons and for Holy Days may be found on pages 412–534. The Holy Days are set out in the Calendar (pages 1–16).

The General Notes (pages xvii–xviii) should also be consulted.
Setting the Scene

Attention to the place of prayer is important for those who are praying with others as much as for those who are praying by themselves.

- A group may find it helpful to sit in a semi-circle in an appropriately sized space, around a lectern on which the Bible is placed, rather than behind each other in pews in the main body of the church. An individual might sit regularly in a particular place, before an open Bible.

- Another focus may be found helpful, in addition to or occasionally in place of the lectern or Bible, such as a cross, a candle, an icon, a symbol of the season or some other Christian symbol.

- Other locations (e.g. around the font for the special Thanksgivings and Prayers on pages 304–330) may be suitable on different occasions, or during particular seasons.

- For those praying alone, anything that helps to give a sense of sharing in the prayer of the whole Church is to be welcomed.

Deciding How

The way in which these orders are celebrated helps or hinders the prayer of the worshipping group. Here are some well-tried suggestions:

- It is good to involve a number of people in leading and participating: reading from the Bible, for example, reading or leading the psalmody, or contributing biddings at the Prayers of Intercession.

- Singing, however simply, and even on one’s own, helps to deepen the worship. Singing can also unite a group or congregation, enriching their prayer and praise.

- A gentle and regular pace will also help to achieve this unity and focus the worship on God.
Silence is not only an essential element of prayer and reflection, but also an effective way of binding the community together. It may be used at various points in any of the orders of prayer.

Body posture is important, too. Even those who are praying alone will find that appropriate variation of position makes a positive difference.

All of the orders lend themselves to the use of symbols and simple actions. A rough wooden cross in Passiontide, the Paschal Candle during Easter, icons of saints from All Saints’ Day until Advent are some seasonal ideas. The lighting of candles at appropriate points in the Forms of Penitence (pages 91–97) and, of course, during the Blessing of Light (pages 110–111), followed perhaps by the burning of incense in a censer or a simple pot during the singing of Psalm 141, are obvious and natural ways of expressing the liturgical words in action.

Decisions about singing, silence, symbol and the leading of the order of prayer should be made in advance, together with other necessary preparations. This ensures that worship can be offered by a well-prepared and confident praying community.

How to Recite

Whether singing or speaking, there are different ways of treating psalms and canticles.

Some of the psalms, such as the more personal and penitential ones, are perhaps best spoken by a single voice. Everyone is encouraged to join in saying ‘Glory to the Father…’ at the end.

Other psalms may be recited alternately (different individuals or groups taking alternate verses) or responsorially (using the refrain provided for the psalm – see pages 647–648) at the beginning, end and whenever the symbol \[\text{[R]}\] appears.

Certain psalms are best recited corporately; this is particularly appropriate for the opening canticles.
The other canticles also have a refrain (sometimes called an antiphon) which is provided to set the tone. The antiphon both gives an indication of the daily or seasonal emphasis and provides text for an easily memorized musical response. It is usually used at the beginning and end of a canticle but, if this refrain is all that the people say or sing, it may be repeated regularly throughout the canticle.

Even when praying alone, individuals may find that their act of praise and prayer is transformed by reading aloud.

Being Part of a Wider Community of Prayer

Finally, although these are flexible orders of prayer that can be used in different ways according to the needs of particular praying people and communities, they will also, through common structures, texts and patterns of Scripture reading, unite those using them into one larger community of prayer. This community extends to all of those who, through the ages and across the nations, have sought to do as Jesus taught us and pray together for the hallowing of God’s name and the coming of God’s kingdom.
General Notes

More detailed notes relating to each order of prayer follow the Introduction to each order. The following general notes are relevant to all the orders.

1 Saying and Singing
In the rubrics, ‘said’ and ‘sung’ are interchangeable.

2 Brackets
Items in square brackets [ ] may be omitted.

3 Hymns and Songs
Various points are indicated for the singing of hymns and songs but, if occasion requires, they may also be sung at other points.
The hymns suggested are optional.

4 Silences
Periods of silence may be kept at different points. Silence may be particularly suitable at the beginning, after the readings and any sermon, and during the prayers.

5 Other versions
The readings and psalms may be read from any version which is not prohibited.

6 Psalms
References to the psalms are for the Common Worship Psalter.
When versions of the psalms other than the Common Worship Psalter are used, such adaptations are made as are necessary.

7 Canticles
The canticles may be replaced by suitable hymns or songs.
Metrical paraphrases may be used in place of the biblical canticles.

8 Refrains
Refrains (antiphons) have been provided, for optional use, with the canticles and the psalms. Refrains drawn from other passages of Scripture may be used.
9 The Peace
The Peace may be exchanged at the Conclusion of any order.

The peace of the Lord be always with you
All and also with you.

These words may be added
Let us offer one another a sign of peace,
God’s seal on our prayers.

10 Holy Days
On Principal Feasts and other Principal Holy Days the orders of the season are used, except that on the Annunciation of Our Lord to the Blessed Virgin Mary the Christmas orders are used.

On Festivals, the orders for the period from All Saints’ Day until the day before the First Sunday of Advent may be used, with the following exceptions:

¶ On the Festivals of Stephen, John and the Holy Innocents, the Christmas orders are used;
¶ on the Festivals of Joseph, the Visit of the Blessed Virgin Mary to Elizabeth, and the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Christmas orders may be used;
¶ on the Festival of the Birth of John the Baptist, the Advent orders may be used;
¶ on the Festival of Mary Magdalene, the Easter orders may be used;
¶ on the Festival of the Transfiguration, the Epiphany orders may be used; and
¶ on Holy Cross Day, the Passiontide orders may be used.

On Lesser Festivals and Commemorations the orders of the Season or of Ordinary Time, as the case may be, are used.

Collects, canticles and refrains specified for each Holy Day (texts that are proper to the day) can be found on pages 412–445 (Temporal) and 446–526 (Sanctorale).

For more detailed seasonal notes, see pages xix–xx.

11 The Collect
The Collect of the day is usually the prayer proper to the Sunday of the current week. However, the Collect of a Principal Feast, other Principal Holy Day or Festival replaces this as the Collect of the day. When a Lesser Festival falls on a weekday, its Collect may be used in place of the Sunday Collect.

xviii General Notes
Seasonal Notes

The Sundays of the Year are listed in the Calendar on pages 2–4. The following notes explain the duration of each Season and relate them to the celebration of Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer and Night Prayer.

1 Advent
¶ Advent begins at Evening Prayer on the Eve of the First Sunday of Advent and ends before Evening Prayer on Christmas Eve (except that the Collect of Christmas Eve is used throughout the day).
¶ The Collect of the First Sunday of Advent may be used each day in Advent.

2 Christmas
¶ Christmas begins at Evening Prayer on Christmas Eve; except that the Collect of Christmas Eve remains in use throughout the day. Christmas ends before Evening Prayer on the Eve of the Epiphany.
¶ If a Festival falls on either of the Sundays of Christmas, it may be observed on the Sunday or be transferred to the first available day.

3 Epiphany
¶ Epiphany begins at Evening Prayer on the Eve of the Epiphany (which may be celebrated on 6 January or the Sunday between 2 and 8 January) and ends at Evening Prayer (or Night Prayer) on the Feast of the Presentation (which may be celebrated on 2 February or the Sunday between 28 January and 3 February).

4 Lent
¶ Lent begins at Morning Prayer on Ash Wednesday and ends after Evening Prayer (or Night Prayer) on Easter Eve.
¶ ‘Alleluia’ is not said in Lent.
¶ The Collect of Ash Wednesday may be used on any day in Lent.
¶ Although Passiontide is a part of Lent, material proper to Passiontide is used from Evening Prayer on the Eve of the Fifth Sunday of Lent to the evening of Easter Eve (except where other provision is made, see below).
¶ No Principal Feast, Festival or Lesser Festival may be observed in Holy Week.
From after the evening celebration of the Last Supper on Maundy Thursday to the Easter Vigil, Morning, Evening or Night Prayer may be said in the following way:

- the Preparation is omitted and the order begins with the psalms;
- all glorias and doxologies are omitted;
- the Responsory is omitted;
- the Prayers consist of the Collect alone;
- the Conclusion is omitted.

Easter

- Easter begins with the Easter Vigil and ends after Evening Prayer (or Night Prayer) on the Day of Pentecost.
- The nine days after Ascension Day until the Day of Pentecost are days of prayer and preparation for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.
- No Principal Feast, Festival or Lesser Festival is celebrated in Easter Week.
- Material proper to Easter is used from the Easter Vigil. Material proper to the period from Ascension Day until the Day of Pentecost is used from Evening Prayer on the Eve of Ascension Day.
- ‘Alleluia’ may be added to any refrain.
- The Paschal Candle may be lit at all offices until Evening Prayer (or Night Prayer) on the Day of Pentecost.

Ordinary Time

- Ordinary Time is the period from the day after the feast of the Presentation of Christ (which may be celebrated on 2 February or the Sunday between 28 January and 3 February) until Shrove Tuesday, and the period between the Day of Pentecost and the First Sunday of Advent.
- During Ordinary Time there is no seasonal emphasis, except that the period between All Saints’ Day and the First Sunday of Advent is observed as a time of celebration and reflection on the reign of Christ in earth and in heaven. Appropriate forms and variations for Prayer During the Day, Morning and Evening Prayer and Night Prayer are provided to emphasize this theme in the final weeks of Ordinary Time.
The Calendar

For Rules to Order the Christian Year, see Common Worship: Services and Prayers for the Church of England, page 526.

In the printing of the Calendar, Principal Feasts and other Principal Holy Days are printed in bold; Festivals are printed in roman typeface; other Sundays and Lesser Festivals are printed in ordinary roman typeface, in black. Commemorations are printed in italics.
