making all kinds of data open, used and useful

the Open Knowledge Foundation

okfn.org
The Open Knowledge Foundation is where people come together to campaign for access to information, share skills and build tools to make data public, used and useful.

Everyone should benefit from information that is relevant and useful to them and to society as a whole, such as where our taxes go and how they are spent, the latest publicly-funded research, and how public services are delivered.

Join us today - as a campaigner, coder, writer, donor, trainer, tweeter, meetup organiser, data wrangler, ambassador... get involved! okfn.org/get-involved